The business consists in the manufacture and sale of lumber, both The Treasury Department has advices the manufacture and sale of lumber, both that Mexico has extedned the free zone forty finished and unfinished, connected with which is a Sash and Blind Manufactory. It was one of the first manufactories put in operation after the close of the late

It is unnecessary for us to say any thing personally about Mr. Atkin. He is well known by every man in this community. He is one of our self-made men, having grown up from the industrious apprentice boy in a tinner's shop, to one of the most successful business men in our communi-strong native intellect, an energy that never backs down from difficulties, and a close attention to business. He has probably contributed as largely to the general success of our city as any other man.

The Sash and Blind manufactory is kept constantly in operation and turns out a vast amount of work, which finds a market all over East Tennessee, as well as in the States South of us.

Mr. Atkin is very largely engaged in contracting and building, and has probaprovements, among which is one of the improved turbine water wheels, costing more than $1,000. Formerly the operations of his saw mill was frequently interferred with by high water. By the improvements made, this difficulty is obviated.

Being situated at the mouth of First Creek, on the river, he has fine facilities for procuring saw logs from up the river. He now has about 200 logs in the river, and has arrangements by which a supply is kept constantl on hand. The saw millwill cut about 10,000 feet of lumber per day. It is estimated that he has consumed and sold in the past year, about 5,000,-600 feet of lumber. In connection with the business he has a large dry kiln, capable of of drying 10,000 feet of lumber per week, enabling him to keep dry lumber on hands to be used in the Sash, Blind and Door render the whole business successful in ev-

He employs in the various departments of his business about fifty hands, who receive, upon an average, $2.00 per day. Thus, it will be seen, that quite a large proportion of our population derive employment and a support from the business of Mr. Atkins. He is possessed of ample means to make any additional improvements, or extension to his business, and will do so whenever occasion requires.

PAPA'S COME.

One bright and happy summer time, When birds and blossoms filled the bowers.

As, weary at the day's decline,
I sought my home to spend the hours,
Two little feet would pattering run,
A silvery voice shout, "Papa's tum."

Blithe as a bird, our darling boy
Would gather pleasure all day long
From flower, or leaf, or simple toy.
Or humming whilst his mimic song.
At eve the joyful feet would run.
The gladsome voice shout, "Papa's tum."

But when the autumn-time drew or And frost the trees in gold had drest, Our little flower, alas! was gone,
By frost of death too rudely prest,
And ceased the pattering feet to run,
The gleeful shont of, "Papa's tum."

The little limbs are resting now. The sunny head, too, is at rest,
And mother earth, with placed brow.
The little form folds on her breast.
No more the blithesome feet shall run; The silvery voice shout, "Papa's tum.

But when the day of life is o'er, And weary with its toil and strife, Oh, tell me! when at Heaven's door I seek the rest of endless life, Shall not I hear the welcome home, The joyful shout of, "Papa's come?"
